- Why I belong to a film club!
- Excellent feel-good movie for Christmas. Once again, good to glimpse life in a Muslim society from a female perspective.
- A window into Saudi Arabia. Very interesting and well made.
- A glimpse into Saudi women's life. Amazing child actress.
- Fantastic. Comedy, education, feeling & drama in one excellent package.
- Beautifully, powerfully understated – wonderful portrayal of the situation of women - & of the future generation's role.
- A real [?] of life in Saudi Arabia
- Thoroughly enjoyed the film. Was pleased when Wadjda got her bike & devastated when her Dad left her Mum & married someone else!
- An enlightening film of hope, very enjoyable.
- What a beautiful film. How difficult to be a woman or young girl in that society. But such hope and optimism & determination.
GREAT FILM CHOICE! Much better than that bloody terror last time!
- Even in a repressive country, the children had more space to play than many here.
- A lovely film – and a fascinating insight into an extraordinary society. How can women be treated like this?!
- Thoroughly enjoyed it. Would love to see Wadjda 2. Very strict Headmistress.
- Marvellous film. Beautifully acted and conceived. Remarkable insight into Saudi life.

- Fascinating and captivating story. A real insight into another culture.
- Captivating – something of an insight into the culture of S.Arabia – I hope!
- Charming & uplifting, with real “feel-good” factor.
- Interesting insight to a different culture from our own.
- More to it than I expected. Enjoyable.
