- Equally enjoyable on second viewing, knowing all the set pieces before they arrived. Absolutely not looking forward to any Hollywood remake – this should stand as a unique cinematic experience.
- Enjoyed the film – bit long.
- The length was worth it – a brilliant study of contemporary 'alienation', and the need for love.
- German and funny, what else can you want!! Bulgarian folk costumes will never be the same again!
- I didn't expect to laugh as much as I did. I didn't feel the chair or look at my watch once!
- Absolutely original – pure cinema pleasure. Very funny and even more profound – strips human pretensions bare!
- A brilliant film, not just a very funny comedy but also a biting satire of corporate culture. 2 hours and 40 minutes has never passed so quickly.
- I didn't know what to expect. The Germans do have humour with a minimum of alcohol
- Best of season.
- Though slightly too long, a wonderfully moving and fulfilling film. Life is best when kept simple.
- Brilliant, great comedy acting
- Thoroughly enjoyable – thanks CFC for something so different
- Fabulous!

- Oh how great it would be if all that corporate nonsense could be subverted like that! Loved the lack of background music, the way it was shot, the way Ines gradually started turning into her Dad

- Uncomfortable movie & seats – too long.
- Very German, heavy-handed, light-hearted.

- Not really my type of film (2:40 minutes stuck with so little leg room did not help)

- Please, please, please could we not have such directional notes? I know it takes so much work – and that is so appreciated – but I hate being told what to think & that is when I don't read the notes until afterwards!! I wonder how others feel??

Based on the above, the film had an overall score of 4.38.
