- Fascinating and a very different portrayal of Palestinian life in Israel than western Media suggest. Even the modestly dress, and devout, Noor was able to stand up to injustice.
- A really engaging story, great acting & fantastic music.
- Loved the focus on the three young women and how they cope with life. Beautifully filmed. I like the way that a person would leave the scene and not be followed by the camera. I was amazed how the women's troubles with expectations & the hostility of men is clearly global. Thank you, it felt a privilege to see this film.
- Totally wonderful film – Women in charge of their own life – great!
- Powerful performances from the 3 girls. Nowhere for them to go.
- Wonderful! I'm with 'em all the way!!
- Great insight into how middle-class Palestinians live in Tel Aviv & good depiction of paternalistic society.
- The characters of the women made this movie extremely absorbing & compelling! All that it was cracked up to be!
- A very enjoyable and interesting film. I really liked the relationship between the three very different women. A very different picture of life for Palestinians in Israel.
- No freedom of expression for women in the Middle East
- Very good

- Intriguing and engaging. Would have liked to have seen more of Tel Aviv, which is a beautiful city.
- Be yourself! Exceptional portrait of modern vs traditional life.
- Very well portrayed. Poor women! Glad I'm too old for such problems.
